

Open Mind

The skill of Open Mind helps a cat to think in different ways. This essential skill gives a cat in the city the ability to stay calm while looking for solutions to the many challenges their new surroundings create for them. As a result, a cat can solve problems and adapt to the new and dangerous situations they will find themselves in.

Awareness

The skill of Awareness helps a cat to notice everything that is happening around it. In a city full of hidden dangers, this skill allows a cat to use all of its senses to gather information about what is lurking nearby. Due to this, a cat can spot danger before it arrives and stay one step ahead of any threat.

Hunting

The skill of Hunting helps a cat to catch food and protect itself from danger. For a cat in the city, this skill provides the means to move quietly and to strike at exactly the right moment. It never rushes towards its prey, which means it can find the food it needs and keep itself safe from harm.

Slow-Time

The skill of Slow-Time helps a cat to focus its mind completely when danger is near. Using this skill, a cat in the city can slow its thoughts until everything around it seems to move more slowly. When this happens, it has far more time to react and dodge even the quickest attacks.

Moving Circles

The skill of Moving Circles helps a cat to keep fighting while staying in constant motion. This skill gives a cat in the city the ability to circle its enemies continuously, making it almost impossible to predict where it will move next. A cat that never stands still is far harder to surround, so even several enemies at once can be dealt with.

Shadow-Walking

The skill of Shadow-Walking helps a cat to move through the city without being seen. This skill teaches a cat in the city to stay completely silent and use the cover of shadows to travel undetected. By moving in this way, it can avoid confrontation entirely and pass through even the most dangerous streets safely.

Trust Yourself

The skill of Trust Yourself helps a cat to believe in its own abilities, even when fear takes hold. This skill gives a cat in the city the confidence to rely on its instincts and trust the training it has received. It is the most challenging skill of all, which is why a cat that has truly found it can face any danger and make the right decisions.
